

I joined Evansville Obedience Club in 2002, which coincidentally is when I created my first web site for my dogs, JesseBae Dobermans. In 2010 the designer for the club site, which is done pro bono, asked for a replacement and I took over.

I redesigned the entire site in 2012. In addition to new graphics, I've added sliders on some pages and a jQuery Lightbox for the member and student photos. Recently I've added several animations that I created with Flash.

This site keeps me busy and helps keep my design skills sharp, as well as, using Several apps in Adobe CS6.

Steve Stout

December 1, 2013